

PERTH AND KINROSS COUNCIL

STRATEGIC POLICY & RESOURCES COMMITTEE – 23 SEPTEMBER 2015
SCRUTINY COMMITTEE – 23 SEPTEMBER 2015ACCOUNTS COMMISSION'S ASSESSMENT OF PERTH AND KINROSS
COUNCIL'S PERFORMANCE REPORTING FOR 2013/14

REPORT BY THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE

PURPOSE OF REPORT

This report presents the Accounts Commission's assessment of the Council's approach to responding to its statutory public performance reporting duties.

1. BACKGROUND/MAIN ISSUES

- 1.1 Each year the Accounts Commission publishes a Statutory Performance Indicator Direction which sets out the requirements for local authorities in meeting their Public Performance Reporting (PPR) duties. The Direction requires Council's to develop their own approach to publishing performance information covering a range of corporate and service themes. This includes reporting on the Local Government Benchmarking Framework (LGBF).
- 1.2 To assure itself that the Direction is being met, this year the Commission published a detailed assessment of how Councils responded to the direction during 2013/14. The assessments are structured to be as objective as possible but the Commission advises that an element of subjectivity is unavoidable when assessing the quality of information presented. Each Council's PPR was assessed for evidence against 26 quality themes, including whether there is:
- a structured approach to PPR, with clear presentation of information
 - effective use of customer satisfaction information
 - a balanced picture of performance
 - a good use of comparators
 - a good use of financial and cost information
 - evidence of the council's dialogue with the public
 - evidence of the accessibility of information
- 1.3 In general the Commission reports that there has been progress across the majority of Councils, but that there remain opportunities for improvement.

2 PERTH AND KINROSS COUNCIL'S PPR ASSESSMENT

- 2.1 Perth and Kinross Council has performed well, demonstrating full compliance in 25 out of 26 categories (See Appendix 1). Our overall assessment compares favourably with other Councils and is the second highest performing Council for meeting the requirements of the Accounts Commission's Statutory Performance Indicator Direction (See Table 1).

- 2.2 The Accounts Commission identifies Perth and Kinross Council as best practice in terms of our strategically structured approach to performance reporting; and for our use of social media to improve dialogue with the public (See Exhibit 1). Councils that have performed weakly in this year's assessment have been asked by the Commission to learn from Perth and Kinross Council and other high performing local authorities. The Commission's assessment of Perth and Kinross Council also highlights other areas of good practice including the broad range of contextual and performance information available on our website, the comprehensive and balanced picture of performance at corporate and service level, use of trend statistics, and engaging with the public to elicit customer satisfaction information.

Exhibit 1

Perth and Kinross Council uses social media, e.g. Twitter, for public performance reporting by publishing statistics under a dedicated hashtag #pkperforms.

- 2.3 The one area for further improvement identified for Perth and Kinross Council was 'Responsiveness to Communities'. The Accounts Commission acknowledges the wide range of information reported by the Council in this area, including complaints and freedom of information requests; the results of various surveys and consultations; and details of future engagement events. However, it also highlights the need to be more transparent about how the Council uses this feedback to improve the design and delivery of frontline Services. This was a common theme across all Councils.
- 2.4 Other common themes identified for many Councils included a reliance on data tables with limited use of infographics and the use and quality of narrative surrounding the data to explain performance to the public in layman's terms.

3. NEXT STEPS

- 3.1 We continue to strive to be more transparent about how we are using customer and community feedback to inform the design of our services. For example, this year's Service Business Management and Improvement Plans 2015/16 include a section on what our customers have been telling us and how we plan to respond. A biennial residents' survey was reintroduced earlier this year and results and planned action will be reported back to the public via this year's Annual Public Performance Report and detailed results will be made available on the Council's website. We have also been working on the national pilot of a Community Planning Partnership (CPP) place-based scrutiny approach. This has involved working with the national scrutiny bodies collectively to devise and assess a potential methodology for the evaluation and scrutiny of how community planning is operating at a local level.

- 3.2 The Council is keeping pace with technological advancements as our good practice in using social media demonstrates. The use of infographics (See Exhibit 2) has recently become prominent across all sectors and the Council has embraced this movement. This year's Annual Performance Report will incorporate infographics and charts with the aim of communicating complicated information in a way which is easier to interpret for elected members, staff and members of the public.

Exhibit 2

An infographic is a way of learning about a topic and visualising impact without the need for a lot of heavy reading. For example:

This is almost a 70% success rate

- 3.3 In the longer term, the Council's Transformation Programme 2015-2020 includes a project to modernise the Council's approach to public performance reporting, primarily through the digitalisation of performance data. A key stage of the review process will be to investigate and learn from good practice elsewhere, including the Councils highlighted by the Accounts Commission in their report.
- 3.4 The Accounts Commission will continue to monitor the Council's progress with responding to the Direction through annual audit, shared risk assessment and Best Value audit processes. The Commission is reviewing its strategy in relation to statutory performance information and will be consulting with key stakeholders on this before issuing a refreshed Direction by the end of 2015.

4. CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

- 4.1 Perth and Kinross Council is a leading authority in terms of performance management and performance reporting, consistently recognised as such by external audit and inspectorates. The Council will continue to adapt and respond to the rapidly changing technological environment to take advantage of opportunities for better engagement and dialogue with our public around performance issues.
- 4.2 It is recommended that the Strategic Policy & Resources Committee and Scrutiny Committee:
- Notes the Accounts Commission's assessment of Perth and Kinross Council's performance reporting for 2013/14; and
 - Notes the next steps detailed at section 3 to secure further improvement.

SPI 1. CORPORATE MANAGEMENT – Each council should report a range of information sufficient to demonstrate that it is securing Best Value in relation to:
1.1 Responsiveness to communities <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Engagement Customer feedback Satisfaction survey Consultation Citizen panel Customer care Complaints FOI requests Contact centre 	1.1.a. A range of PPR info gives a broad overview of performance.	The BMI/APR for the Chief Executive's Service reports 2013/14 three KPIs under Service Objective 4 (page 13 of the pdf), on complaints and FOI requests (See 1.1.d below).	The website provides contextual information on how the council engages with communities and how the public can make complaints or FOI requests. However, some information dates from before 2013/14 and it is difficult for the public to see how the council has reacted to feedback from communities to improve the design and delivery of front line services. Also, the public may be reluctant to search for performance information in committee reports.	AFI
	1.1.b. PPR has local indicators giving a full picture of performance, eg on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> how well the council meets the needs of specific communities data from surveys/ consultations how it has reacted to feedback how it has improved services. 	There is info on the results of surveys and consultations, at Council and government > Council information, performance and statistics > Financial challenges > Have your say . However, the latest info dates from 2010. The web page on Financial challenges was last modified in December 2012, according to the website. Also, the website has no info on how the council has reacted to feedback, or improved services. Consultation on key decisions/ policies, and how this has affected design and delivery of services, is reported in committee reports. [Following this assessment, the council noted 'Corporately, a biennial residents survey was reintroduced in late 2014 /15 and will be reported back to the public with service-level information. An ongoing resident 'survey-lite' that can be used at any time by any resident will also be made available.'
	1.1.c. The council actively seeks feedback on corporate and service issues.	At Home > Browse council info (in page header) > Council and government , there is info on Consultations, complaints and future complements . The public can see info on past, current and future consultation and engagement events and Viewfinder , the council's citizens' panel.
1.1.d. Complaints data are reported for all services.	The Business management and improvement plan (BMIP) and annual performance report 2013/14 (APR) for the Chief Executive's Service reports on 2013/14 KPIs under Objective 4, eg percentage of FOI requests responded to within 20 days of receipt. The document comments on progress against each of the four objectives, and has a few lines on each KPI. Also, the Education and Children's Services Standards and quality report 2013/14 has a statistics on complaints (Appendix 6).

Interesting practice

Example 1

Which council is this about?	Perth & Kinross Council
Headline topic	Structured approach to PPR, with clear presentation of information.
What is the practice, and what makes it interesting?	A comprehensive approach to performance information incorporates a range of material for different audiences. For example there is a high-level newsletter and more detailed Annual Report and service-level reports should the reader require detailed information. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The PPR website is clearly structured, with easy-to-follow links. • Signposting is good and traffic light 'RAG' status reporting identifies good and poor performance and trends. • The Annual Report is based around SOA outcomes and links to higher level and partnership objectives. This can make isolating council-specific performance harder, although the website also provides links to the council's service-level reporting. • The council's PPR material incorporates customer satisfaction findings. • A customer-facing summary report follows the SOA outcomes structure and highlights key aspects of performance. Its format is accessible and adopts the RAG status reporting style, with performance illustrated by examples and case studies.
What has contributed to its success in this council?	Information is logically structured, comprehensive, and straightforward to navigate. The RAG approach to reporting, with associated commentary, ensures that areas of under-performance are not glossed over. The collation, within one report, of performance information on 2013/14 and plans for 2014/15 makes it easy for the reader to discern how the council plans to improve further, especially in areas of under-performance. Customised 'slices' of performance information related to the role of each public sector partner in the community planning partnership.
